Gallery in my pocket

This project is a prototype publication, an A5 square ring bound handmade and professionally printed book. The content of the book is split into six themes that present examples of my personal work along with blank templates and or paper for owners to add their own work. The contents share some of my personal Autistic art works. I want people to learn through using the journal at home when out & about or in gallery spaces to support access, confidence and to inspire creativity. The more you explore the book's themes the more you can build confidence to create art and upskill creatively. The owner can develop their own work and add to the book by opening the rings/spine and growing the book into something new in this collaborative hybrid pocket size gallery.
