Let Me Play With My Food

Let Me Play With My Food is a workshop based around the phrase, don't play with your food.

To play with food in this way is healing. Removing consumption allows the other senses to engage. How does it feel between your fingers? as opposed to how does it feel between your teeth? How does this smell make me feel? instead of what taste does this smell remind me of? In this workshop, we will create paintings made purely from everyday foodstuff from my kitchen.

Food is central to my identity as a British-Pakistani and is a key material in my practice. Come and make a mess and play with some food.
