

Ellie Rolfe

A Lesson in Conformity

A Lesson in Conformity is a projected video based upon my own experience within the British primary and secondary state education system. This piece aims to critique the Education system's emphasis on enforcing conformity and teaching pupils and students to obey without question over the actual education the state education system is intended for. The projected video comprises a series of short animation created using digital collage composed within a wood panelled wall utilising the architecture of the building it inhabits.

Ellie Rolfe

A Lesson in Conformity

A Lesson in Conformity is a projected video based upon my own experience within the British primary and secondary state education system. This piece aims to critique the Education system's emphasis on enforcing conformity and teaching pupils and students to obey without question over the actual education the state education system is intended for. The projected video comprises a series of short animation created using digital collage composed within a wood panelled wall utilising the architecture of the building it inhabits.